CHANGEOVER IN SAN ANSELMO

Chief Donald T. Wood, 65, and Sgt. Raymond R. Buchignani attended to last minute business before the veteran police chief retired yesterday. He was 37 years old when he was named as San Anselmo's first police chief on Feb. 16, 1930. Buch-ignani, who took over today as chief, is 38. Frank P. Theron, manager of the San Anselmo Bank of America, assisted as Buchignani's signature replaced that of the retiring chief on books of bail trust fund and as a trustee of the San Anselmo Police Protective Assn. (Independent-Journal photo)

Woman Found Pollution Board Asks State, Federal Help In Debris Study

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco Bay Regional Water Pollution Control Board has asked state and federal agencies to help in making a survey to determine where floating debris in the Bay is coming from and how to eliminate it.

The request was made at a meeting yesterday in the San Francisco District Army Engineer's office.

Testimony on the debris problem was offered by representatives of the Army Engineers, Coast Guard and the state departments of Public Health, fish and game and water resources.

The state Department of Water Resources accepted responsi-

Aid Waste In Viet Nam To Be Probed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional investigation into the charges of waste, extravagance and maladministration of the foreign aid program in Viet Nam promises to be long and perplexing.

Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) — after two days of public hearings — said his Senate foreign relations subcommittee will "go more deeply into all questions" raised by conflicting testimony.

Mansfield said he will call his group into a closed session Tuesday to map a program for further inquiry.

Albert M. Colegrove, a Scripps-Howard writer, has charged in a series of articles that administration of the program in Saigon is "an outrageous scandal."

His stories have been denounced by foreign aid officials as reckless, sensational and distorted.

NEW SHARK KILLING PLAN DEVELOPED

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Capsized death for sharks has been developed by a group of marine scientists.

The idea is to conceal a soft plastic tube or bag filled with lime crystals and aluminum shreds in a bait.

When a shark gulps the lure, a triggering device — — would pop out one end of a sealed tube or turn a bag inside out in the fish's stomach.

The violent action of the shark's digestive liquids on the compound — much like sink cleaners — kills.

The scientists estimated the cost for the deadly bait at two to four cents each.

Runaway MMWD Truck Crashes Through Yards

A driverless Marin Municipal Water District truck rolled down a San Anselmo street at 2:30 p.m. yesterday and crashed through the yards of two houses.

A Water District employee Glenn L. Ensign, 60, told police he parked the pickup on Sequoia Drive at Cypress Avenue and that the brake apparently became released when he slammed the door shut.

San Anselmo Patrolman L. R. McAllister said the truck rolled 320 feet down the street, bouncing over the curb into the yard of Mrs. Leonard Miller at 153 Sequoia.

It then crashed through a fence into the yard of James Baffunno at 149 Sequoia, rolling over shrubs and flowers and scraping along the front of the house before coming to a halt against a fence at the other side of the house.

Ensign, of 152 Miramar Avenue, San Rafael, fell while chasing the truck, and was taken by McAllister to San Rafael General Hospital for treatment of cuts on the knees and head.

Nikita Eager To Visit U.S. In 'Good Time'

Russian Premier Again Indicates He Desires Trip

By ERNEST BARCELLA

MOSCOW (UPI) — Premier Nikita Khrushchev indicated today that he would like to pay a visit to the United States "when the time is ripe."

Khrushchev made the remark in response to a question from this correspondent while he was inspecting the U.S. Air Force 707 Jetliner that brought Vice President Richard M. Nixon here from the United States.

Khrushchev was asked whether he would like to fly non-stop to America in Nixon's plane.

"This one or some other one," he replied. "That is not a question of principle—that is, the type of plane to be used."

"When?" this reporter asked.

"When the time is ripe, in good time," Khrushchev said.

The remark was the latest expression of Khrushchev's known desire to visit the United States. Some members of the Nixon party—and perhaps the vice president himself—are known to favor such a visit.

Nixon did not mention the possibility that President Eisenhower may invite Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to the United States but indicated he personally favored such an invitation.

Besides calling for more contacts between leaders of the two countries, Nixon also advanced these proposals to ease tensions:

1. Regular radio and television broadcast by Khrushchev to the American people, in exchange for Eisenhower's proposal to give the same privilege to talk to the Russian people.

2. Agreement that all of Khrushchev's speeches on foreign policy be printed in the United States and all of Eisenhower's speeches on the same subject be printed in the Soviet Union.

3. An end to Soviet jamming of American broadcasts "so that the Soviet people may hear broadcasts from our country just as the American people can hear 40 hours of broadcasts a day from the Soviet Union." This proposal also included a plea for "a freer flow of newspapers and magazines here just as we Americans purchased (one and one-half million) Soviet publications in the last year alone."

4. Greatly expanded programs of exchange of peoples and of cultural programs.

5. Removal of the language barrier by having millions of American and Russian students learning one another's language.

Nixon also called for "peaceful competition, not only in producing the best factories but in producing better lives for our children."

EXPLORE TOGETHER

"Let us cooperate in our exploration of outer space," he said. "As a worker told me in Novosibirsk, let us go to the moon together."

"Let us extend the concept of open skies. What the world also needs are open cities, open minds and open hearts."

Although the general tone of the Nixon address was conciliatory, he did not hesitate to lay it on the line when he came to the question of Soviet objections to the presence of U.S. military bases near the iron curtain.

"Whenever the fear and suspicion that caused us and our allies to take measures for collective self-defense are removed, the reason for our maintaining bases will be removed," the vice president said.

"A striking illustration of why we maintain bases and strong military forces is the fact that one-fourth of the entire production of the USSR goes into armaments."

'SERIES OF EVENTS'

Inviting the Russian people to look at the record as to why the United States built the bases, Nixon said his country disarmed rapidly after World War II, "then came a series of events which threatened our friends abroad as well as ourselves."

He pointed to the Berlin blockade and the Korean War as typical of the actions which led the western powers to re-arm.

These events occurred before the 20th Communist Party Congress in 1956 changed "the line to the one Mr. Khrushchev enunciated again (Wednesday)"

HERE'S TIP FOR GETTING RID OF PESKY YELLOW JACKETS

Outdoor living is no fun with yellow jackets buzzing about, but Marin County Agricultural Commissioner Thomas Peryam has come up with a trick that may get the bothersome insects to drown themselves.

Peryam said today that his office has received an increasing number of complaints by persons being driven "out of their yards and their patios and almost out of their homes by yellow jackets."

Peryam advises:

Get a wash tub or some other large vessel. Fill it with water so that the water line is only 3 1/2 inches from the top. Then nail a piece of fish or fresh meat to a 3 1/2-inch wide board. Invert the board over the water so that ends lap over the tub. The meat then faces the water but does not touch it.

The yellow jackets are attracted to the meat but when they try to get away with a piece, they dive into the water and drown, reports Peryam.

He said one woman who tried this system had to empty her washtub of yellow jackets about twice daily for a week until a nearby nest was depopulated, and has not been troubled by yellow jackets since.

West Favors Giving Invite

GENEVA (UPI) — The western allies have approved a possible invitation to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to visit the United States, reliable sources at the Big Four foreign minister's conference said today.

Britain, France and West Germany were informed in the past few days that President Eisenhower is considering such an invitation—possibly before the end of Vice President Richard Nixon's Soviet trip or, more likely, soon after he returns home.

The western allies were said to have expressed no objections to such a visit, the sources said.

However, there was no confirmation of rumors that Eisenhower might himself visit Russia later, possibly in November or December.

No Sharks Today At Tomales Bay

Sharks were scarce today at Tomales Bay.

For the second straight day there was nothing in the nets of the Konatiches, father and son, except the sea bass they need for their Tony's Seafood restaurant in Marshall, but Felix Konatiches, the son, said that for a fisherman that's not bad.

"Those sharks make a lot of trouble by tearing the nets," said he on a basis of plenty of experience. The Konatiches have brought in three white sharks within the week—last Saturday's 750-pounder, another Tuesday and the third Thursday.

Sausalito Man Seriously Hurt In Golden Gate Bridge Accident

A 28-year-old Sausalito salesman was injured yesterday afternoon when the right rear tire blew out on his small German-made car. The car careered head-on into a concrete curb wall on the Golden Gate Bridge and the driver was thrown to the pavement, according to the California Highway Patrol.

Richard T. Helmers of 403 Napa street, Sausalito, was taken to Marin General Hospital with face and scalp lacerations. The CHP said his wounds were severe.

Twelve C-119 Flying Boxcars arrived at Hamilton Air Force Base today with 680 Air Force Reservists from the Bay Area's Golden Gate Wing after two weeks of active duty at Boise, Idaho.

The men belong to the 312th Troop Carrier Squadron. In addition to making practice air drops and training as mechanics, the reservists spent most of last Saturday and early Sunday battling a brush fire that for a time threatened an ammunition storage depot on their base.

Brig. Gen. Rollin P. Moore, wing commander, landed the first of the Flying Boxcars at Hamilton.

Susan Rose Steinmetz, 16, of 50 Blossom Drive, San Rafael, and her passenger, April David, 16, of 147 Drake Boulevard, were treated at Marin General Hospital. Miss Steinmetz suffered a sprained right wrist, bruised knee and bloody nose. Miss David suffered scalp and leg bruises.

Miss Steinmetz's coupe struck the rear of the car of Conrad Joel Roemer, 26, San Francisco insurance claims adjuster, which was stopped at the Laurel Grove traffic light, according to the CHP.

Roemer's car struck the rear of a car being driven by John Victor Garbarino, 55, a San Francisco pharmacist. Miss Steinmetz was cited for unsafe speed.

More on skin care—this week, first, oily skin . . . cleanse the face at least three times daily with oily skin cleanser or wash with tepid water and soap . . . work up a good lather, apply with finger tips and gently massage the skin . . . use astringent after each cleansing . . . on retiring apply night-care fluid that discourages oily secretions . . .

Combination skin—this is, of course, the hardest to care for as you have to treat each area separately . . . never remove cosmetics with soap and water but use a non-oily or liquefying cleanser . . . at bedtime, cover dry skin areas with dry-skin cream . . . on shiny areas put a thin layer of calamine lotion . . . normal skin areas—wash with gentle soap night and morning, applying light skin oil or baby lotion to face and throat on retiring . . .

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

August Is Anniversary Of Two Vital American Liberties

August is always an important month in American history. It marks the anniversaries of two highly significant events linked with the basic freedoms that are the bulwark of our free way of life.

One of these is the acquittal of John Peter Zenger of New York on a libel charge on Aug. 4, 1735 — a victory which in fact established the freedom of the press, one of our great American liberties.

Zenger, a young editor, had incurred the enmity of New York's Gov. William Cosby by publishing an expose of graft and corruption. He was arrested for libel and his attorney, Andrew Hamilton of Philadelphia, presented a brilliant defense, denying the validity of the old maxim "The greater the truth, the greater the libel."

A jury quickly acquitted the crusading editor and there was loud rejoicing in the packed courtroom.

The Zenger trial and verdict firmly established the principle of your right to know. But it did something else. It forged for the press chains that are no less binding than those of oppressive, autocratic government. They are, however, chains welcome to the press, the chains of moral responsibility to the people.

The other date, Aug. 30, commemorates the banishment of Anne Hutchinson from Massachusetts Colony — an episode that led to the successful struggle for religious freedom in America.

Because she chose to worship in her own way and would not subscribe to the religious tenets of the colony's government, Anne Hutchinson was made to leave with her family.

The issue was taken up by Roger Williams under whose leadership another great American freedom was established — the right of all Americans to worship as they choose. That right we still guard zealously today and struggle to defend.

We recognize that while all of us are free to worship in our own way, the sacred right involves serious responsibilities. It implies that if we are to enjoy religious liberty ourselves, we must respect the creed of our neighbors just as we expect them to respect ours; that we must forever remain aloof from religious bigotries.

SAFETY AWARDS NO GUARANTEE

A taxi driver died in an automobile collision in Philadelphia recently, a few months after receiving a 25,000-mile safe driver award.

While driving his own private automobile he collided with a police motorcycle which was speeding on its way to answer a burglar alarm.

The 40-year-old cabbie was thrown from his auto and crushed to death.

Police found in his pocket the safe driver award that he had received only 4 months previously.

Few people who have maintained a good record for a lengthy period are caught off guard. But there is too much at stake for any of us to take even the slightest chances. Keep your sights constantly fixed on the big goal of life and you will be more apt to persevere in overcoming countless temptations.

No matter how small they may seem or how sure you are of yourself, remember that the Devil takes a special delight in ruining life-long records.

"The path of the just departeth from evils: he that keepeth his soul keepeth his life." (Proverbs 16:17)

Keep me, O Lord, from making any mistakes during this life that will jeopardize my eternal salvation.

MARIN LOOKS AT POLITICS

Vera Schultz Definitely Will Not Seek McCollister's Assembly Seat

By CHAPIN A. DAY

Supervisor Vera Schultz of Mill Valley, a one-time Democratic candidate for the State Assembly, today took herself completely out of the race to succeed retiring Assemblyman Richard H. McCollister.

Mrs. Schultz, who has been prominently mentioned as a Democratic candidate, put it this way:

"I do not have any intention of running for the Assembly. I feel I have unfinished work on the Board of Supervisors."

She laughed when she was asked if her decision had anything to do with the proposed new civic center. "I certainly is an important issue," she confessed.

Definite withdrawal of Mrs. Schultz leaves the Marin Democratic organization without a leading candidate to offer for the two-county job.

Only other Marin Democrat to have evidenced much interest is Price J. Hall of Larkspur, who ruefully admits that if he runs "I don't think I will have the organization backing."

In fact many Marin Democrats are adopting the attitude that "it's Sonoma's turn" to have the assemblyman. Hubert B. Scudder of Sonoma had it for 15 years; McCollister of Marin has held it for 20 years.

In Sonoma there are a number of "much interested" possible candidates. One of the leading ones is Santa Rosa attorney John Fitzgerald. Another woman mentioned is Helen Putnam of Petaluma, former member of the school board there. You'll be hearing of others too.

WHEN GOV. BROWN pocket vetoed 139 bills at the end of his bill signing period last weekend, four measures by Marin legislators went down the drain — three by Senator Jack McCarthy, two by McCollister.

McCollister's bill didn't affect Marin County. It would have allowed the Sonoma Board of Supervisors to appropriate money for a small craft harbor. The governor said the attorney general had questioned its constitutionality of special legislation.

Of McCarthy's three disapproved bills, only one of them seemed to upset him. That was SB 619 which would require the state to notify boards of supervisors in whose counties they are abandoning property. The bill was introduced at the request of Marin Rod and Gun Club.

In pocket vetoing the bill, the governor said the legislation was unnecessary because the State Lands Commission already notifies the individual legislators of any such activity in his area.

"But the county should be notified too," raged McCarthy. "If I were members of the Rod and Gun Club I'd sure be sore."

Second of his bills had to do with weighing rock, gravel and ready-mix concrete trucks. Brown said it was "not in the public interest."

The third would have permitted counties to hire private ambulances and hearses when public owned vehicles were not available. The governor said the bill was unnecessary

...AND THAT'S THE PICTURE ON RADIATION, GENTLEMEN.... IT'S NOT A PRETTY ONE....

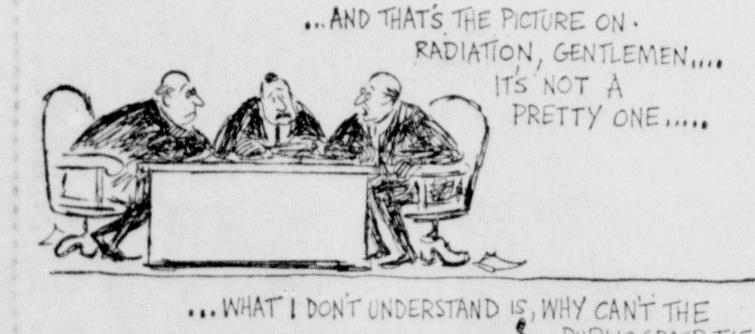

...WHAT I DON'T UNDERSTAND IS, WHY CAN'T THE PUBLIC GRASP THE GRAVITY OF THE SITUATION?

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Where Is This Bridge Mix-Up?

EDITOR, Independent-Journal:

I read with great interest your editorial "Larkspur Ought to Start Building Bridge Approach," as I do most of your editorials. I was, however, surprised at the lack of factual information obtained by its writer, some of which has been quite visible at the project site within the past month.

Some of the facts regarding the project should be considered before you so readily point your finger at the so-called "guy who is impeding progress."

First, the bridge was not completed by the county; it was constructed by the City of Larkspur under a joint contract with the county.

Second, the city let a contract to construct the road in question on April 1, as noted in the I-J of April 2. Prior to that time, the public utilities had been notified of the proposed work and were making the necessary arrangements to proceed with their particular part of the project.

Third, we have accused no one of being "the villains," as you put it, as the city has received excellent cooperation from the PG&E, the Marin Municipal Water District, and the Pacific Telephone Co. in all matters relating to this project. Certain power and water lines had to be relocated prior to road construction; this work is in progress and has been going on for well over two months. "More than a couple of weeks" is required for this type of relocation work.

If an administrative mix-up is causing the delay, we agree that it is Larkspur's responsibility to get it untangled, and we should appreciate your advice as to where this mix-up exists.

In my opinion, the so-called delay is due, not to lack of cooperation, nor the wish of anyone to hold back the project, nor to administrative mix-up, but rather to such uncontrollable factors as a 60-day delay in shipment of the required 18-inch water pipe, approximately four weeks' work to relocate power lines after the receipt of all materials, preparation of poles and that it would be an additional cost to the counties.

AT LEAST ONE other bill died in the governor's pocket because of Marin opposition. Brown turned down a measure which would have prohibited milk distributors from writing into contracts clauses denying producers the right to join cooperatives.

The sponsors, mainly the California Milk Producers Federation, requested the veto when Sonoma-Marin Dairymen's Association and several other groups, pointed out they serve other functions, such as labor relations.

locations; and the several weeks' work required to cut over a main telephone cable. Some of these things have been done; some are still in progress; all are being taken care of as rapidly as possible.

Among the alternative steps considered to reduce construction time on the project was the installation of a temporary water main, at a cost of from three to five thousand dollars, to be used during construction of the road while waiting for receipt and installation of the new 18-inch pipe.

As we also think about the taxpayers, we considered the delay to be better than the added cost with no added benefit.

Another possibility was to work around the water main; however, the chance of breaking this old main, with the resultant loss of water by the entire southern Marin area, was not, in our opinion, worth the time which would have been gained.

With this added information before you, perhaps you can advise me to whom I should address the suggested letter registering a formal protest.

Beg That You Get Polio Shots

EDITOR, Independent-Journal:

I am the proud father of two fine children, a boy 12 1/2 and a girl, just 14. There is one unhappy phase of this otherwise perfect picture. My daughter, Lloydane, is a victim of polio and right at an age when most girls are enjoying the period of changing from girlhood to womanhood, she has been and presently is confined to her bed.

I hope this letter shakes many into action, but if only one child is saved by shots this letter may have instigated, I will be most thankful.

BENNETT CERF

Caskie Stinnett once let his old boxer dog, Punchy, share a bedroom with him aboard the Chicago-bound Broadway Limited. The Pullman conductor took a dim view of the proceedings. "Keep your door tightly closed," he said, "so that dog doesn't wander down the corridor. She might bite somebody."

"She doesn't bite," observed Caskie haughtily. "She's got teeth, hasn't she?" countered the conductor. Only after he had shut the door did Caskie realize he should have answered, "So have you."

Next morning, as he left the train, Caskie spotted a Pullman conductor and decided to redeem himself. Fixing the conductor with a level gaze, he snapped, "So have you!" The conductor looked blank. Stinnett decided later it was a different conductor.

'Vest Pocket' Missile Warfare Giving County Citizens Bad Time

The world may be worried about intercontinental ballistic missiles and big wars as compared with "vest pocket wars."

But Marin County's immediate concern is the "vest pocket" missile warfare that's going on full blast right now. Peace-loving citizens who seek haven among the hills of Marvelous Marin are finding it tough trying to dodge missiles of all sizes and shapes.

First, there's the rocks and pellets from slingshots and BB guns from youngsters who are making like "The Rifleman." Now comes deer season, with hunters roaming the hills with bigger missiles.

There have been several close calls in the county already. Sheriff's deputies are keeping fingers crossed, wondering when the first casualties will begin rolling in.

SPEAKING OF deer season, one San Rafael hunter was mighty happy the other day when he bagged his first buck. He had his deer tag validated, took the meat to a frozen food locker for processing, and waited eagerly for his first steak. He never got it.

A few days later the game warden came knocking. The deer in the locker turned out to be a spike, not quite ready for shooting. Result: Possible fine instead of dine.

LOOKS AS IF the new meter patrolwomen in San Rafael will be wearing uniform skirts and blouses instead of slacks.

But there's no cause for alarm. They will ride scooters instead of motorcycles.

SINCE SHERIFF Lou Moun- tain instituted the new system of having jailers roam through the cells, he's uncov- ered at least one type of shenanigan that's been going on inside the jail.

Seems every time a new guest walks in, the "oldtimers" initiate him with what they call "Operation pink belly." You lay the neophyte down and rap him on the belly

...and that's the picture on radiation, gentlemen.... it's not a pretty one....

...what I don't understand is, why can't the public grasp the gravity of the situation?

NEEDS SOME ANSWERS

Kennedy In Oregon For Key Discussions

By Congressional Quarterly

WASHINGTON — Sen. John F. Kennedy (D, Mass.) was flying to Oregon today to start his campaign for victory in next May's presidential primary and learn the answers to two vital questions:

1 — Has his coup in capturing the woman selected to manage rival Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey's (D, Minn.) Oregon primary knocked Humphrey out of the running?

2 — How much of a threat will Adlai E. Stevenson be if his backers go ahead with their plan to enter him against his wishes in the Oregon race?

KENNEDY WILL address a Democratic dinner in Portland tonight, then stay over to keynote the state AFL-CIO convention in Seaside on Monday.

He will be introduced to the Democratic gathering by Rep. Edith Green (D) of Portland, a lady with important connections in liberal and labor groups, a close political ally of Sen. Wayne Morse (D, Ore.), and one of the seconders of Stevenson's nomination in 1956.

Neither Morse, who last week refused the favorite son role in the Oregon primary, nor Mrs. Green has an announced choice for the Democratic nomination.

However, Mrs. Sylvia Nemer — a Portland political leader described by Mrs. Green as "my close personal and political friend" — has accepted the job of running Kennedy's Oregon campaign.

THE DECISION of the handsome, red-haired Mrs. Nemer to sign up with Kennedy climaxed one of the most dramatic behind-the-scenes battles waged so far in the fight for the 1960 Democratic nomination.

Charles King complains that one thing that never turns out as you think it should is the automobile in front of you.

An emissary from the Humphrey camp went out to Oregon in May to secure Mrs. Nemer's services as his Oregon campaign director. Mrs. Nemer had been recommended to Humphrey by friends who had been impressed by her successful management of the Stevenson campaign against Sen. Estes Kefauver (D, Tenn.) in the 1956 Oregon primary. The Humphrey camp was jubilant when their agent returned to Washington with word that Mrs. Nemer had agreed to take the job.

But in early June, a Kennedy agent visited Oregon and arranged for Mrs. Nemer to meet Kennedy during his June 20-21 visit to Washington state. On June 24 Humphrey was informed Mrs. Nemer had decided to work for Kennedy.

New Baptist Building At Roofing Stage

Sanctuary Slated To Be Ready For Christmas Services

Construction of the new First Baptist Church of San Rafael in the 1400 block on Lincoln avenue has reached the roofing stage, Rev. Wallace M. Hough, Jr., the pastor, reported today.

Rev. Hough said the foundation has been laid and the framework is up.

Work was first begun in 1958 and carried on as far as finances would then permit. It has now been resumed and will be carried through to completion.

When completed the Baptists will boast a new chapel building 46 by 98 feet in its dimensions. The front third of the building on Lincoln will be three stories high, the remainder two stories tall.

SEATING FIGURES

The regular chapel is planned to seat 350 persons and a choir of 35. In addition there will be a combination chapel annex and classroom at the rear that will seat another 50 persons.

The structure will also contain another four classrooms.

Rev. Hough said the congregation hopes the new sanctuary will be ready for Christmas services this year. It is expected that the other facilities will be ready for use two or three months after Christmas.

LeRoy Chambliss of Concord is the general contractor and Carl Chandler of San Rafael the building chairman.

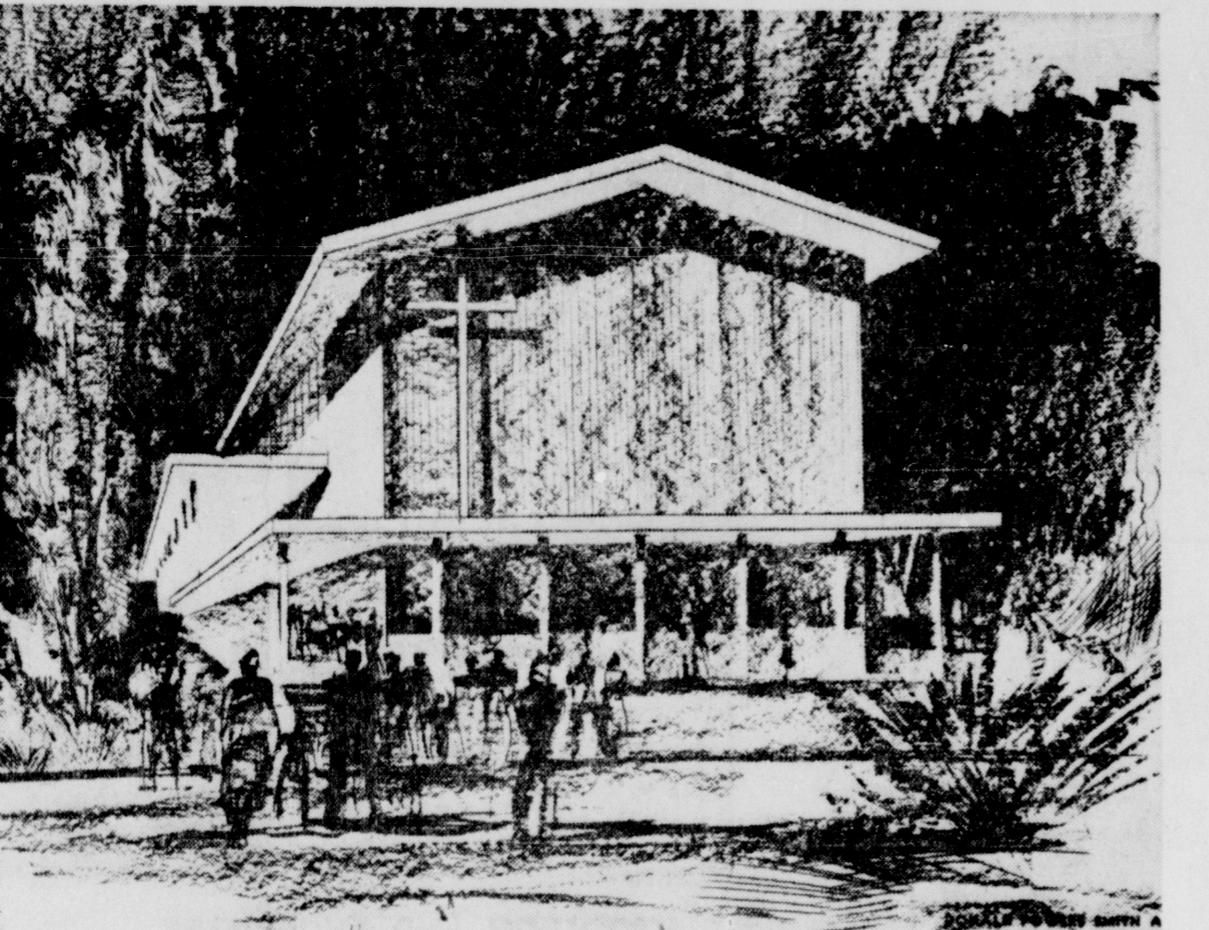

Rev. Hough said that when the new building is ready for occupancy, the sanctuary will be moved to its confines and present facilities will be used for educational purposes.

FOUR-PART PROGRAM

The building now under construction is part one of a four part master building plan. Part two calls for a large education building, 140 feet by 46 feet and two stories high, which the church expects to build within the next three years.

Part three will consist of a new permanent sanctuary seating between 1,000 and 1,200, thought to be about ten years away.

Part four will be an eventual small activities building with meeting rooms, library, offices, etc.

HOW NEW CHURCH WILL LOOK

This architect's drawing shows how the new First Baptist Church of San Rafael building, now being constructed at 1411 Lincoln avenue, will look when completed. Work is now at the roofing stage.

Tiburon Boulevard Church Starts Up

The Tiburon Boulevard Baptist Church, a mission of the First Baptist Church of San Rafael, will conduct its first services tomorrow on the campus of Golden Gate Seminary.

Dr. J. Lyn Elder, professor of psychology of religion and counseling, will serve as acting pastor.

He has been with the seminary since 1954.

Dr. Elder has held pastorates in Louisiana and Virginia and acted as chaplain to the Kentucky Baptist Hospital in Louisville. He also served four years as Army chaplain with paratroop forces. He is a Louisiana State University graduate and holds Master degrees in theology from Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville.

The new church will hold Sunday school at 9:45 a.m. and morning worship at 11 p.m. to morrow. Evening services will include Baptist training union at 6:30 p.m. and worship services at 7:30. Regular Wednesday evening prayer meetings will be held at 7:30.

The seminary chapel building will serve the new church as its temporary meeting place. Three acres of property have been purchased on Tiburon boulevard as a site for a permanent church building. It is expected that the first unit of the new church facilities will be built there, three quarters of a mile east of the Bel Aire Shopping Center, in the near future.

Dr. Elder stressed the new church site is established for ministry to the community at large and not just seminary students.

Pastor, Wife Bid Farewell

The congregation and friends of the Peace Lutheran Church on Highway 1 between Mill Valley and Sausalito will bid their pastor, Rev. Robert K. Menzel and Mrs. Menzel farewell tomorrow.

The affair will be held in the new Christian education and activities building at 4 p.m.

Persons who would like to attend are asked to call Mrs. Roger Johnson, Dunlap 8-0426. She is the farewell committee chairman.

While the pastorate is vacant Col. H. Heuer, 6th Army chaplain, will officiate at services each Sunday at 10 a.m.

Marinite Heard At Conference

Rev. Gerald S. Moyer, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Corte Madera and chairman of the evangelism committee of the West Bay Baptist Association, was one of ten well-known Baptist pastors who headed in discussions this week at the Evangelism and Bible Conference in Green Lake, Wis.

Their subject was: "What kind of evangelism must the Christian church use to reach people in today's world?" Some 450 delegates attended the conference.

Sunday morning and mid-week services will continue to be held at 29 Caledonia street, Sausalito, until the Methodist building is vacated by its present congregation. This will probably be within 90 days, according to assembly Pastors James Walton and Don McMurray.

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, Aug. 1, the 213th day of the year, with 152 more days in 1959.

The moon is approaching its new quarter.

The evening stars are Jupiter, Saturn, Venus and Mars.

On this date in history:

In 1790, the first tabulation of the United States census was started and totals showed a national population of nearly four million.

In 1794, an armed demonstration against an excise tax started the whiskey rebellion in Pennsylvania.

In 1819, American author Herman Melville was born.

In 1907, an aeronautical division was set up within the United States Army... and the Air Force traces its beginning to this date.

In 1933, Carl Hubbell of the New York Giants pitched his 45th consecutive scoreless inning.

Thought for today: Herman Melville said, "A whale ship was my Yale College and Harvard."

SPEED LAW MEANS JUST WHAT IT SAYS

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Here's what California's new speed law will mean to the California Highway Patrol:

So state Bradford M. Crittenden, CHP commissioner, who told newsmen that after the new speed limit goes into effect Jan. 1 drivers caught exceeding it will be cited, without exception. Said Crittenden:

"The patrol intends to enforce the law as written, and no tolerance will be recognized for any violators."

Two drunken drivers drew jail terms and two others got off with fines yesterday in Marin Municipal Court.

Judge Harold J. Haley sentenced Rollie Eatmon, 32, of Vallejo to 15 days in jail and a $250 fine, and Alonzo Leander Hipp, 42, of Larkspur, five days in jail and a $250 fine.

Eatmon was caught on Highway 101. He was previously convicted of the same offense last Sunday.

The president of J. H. Pomeroy and Co. peeled off one-hundred dollar bills and smaller currency to meet the $350 fine. Judge Harold J. Haley of Marin Municipal Court ruled that for the next six months the executive may drive only to and from work and while carrying out his business enterprises. His business will take him into various parts of the state and into Nevada, his attorney, Roderick P. Martinelli, explained.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Bruce A. Bevan Jr. said that it is his theory that "Hewlett probably made Hendrickson a relatively small loan" to start with. Then, Bevan said, Hewlett gradually got in deeper... so Hendrickson could recoup his losses.

Bevan thinks Hewlett was forced gradually into embezzlement, after making the first loan, an illegal one — not through regular channels.

Why Hewlett did it at all, Bevan could not say.

Of State Hit

By Heat Wave

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A heat wave gripped Southern California today, with a maximum reading of 98 predicted for Los Angeles and 100-degree-plus marks expected in the suburbs.

Smog is expected in all but coastal sections.

It was 97 in Los Angeles yesterday—breaking the 1930 record for the date by two degrees.

The mercury reached 105 at Van Nuys, 103 at San Bernardino, 102 at Bakersfield, 100 at Northridge and Palmdale, 96 in Long Beach and 85 in San Diego.

Normal readings for this time of year range from the mid-70s along the coast to the mid-80s in the Los Angeles area.

Thunderstorms struck the mountain and desert areas yesterday, and lightning touched off a score of fires in the Angeles, San Bernardino and Cleveland National Forests.

Possible Violence Feared As Mexicans Go To Polls

TIJUANA, Mexico (UPI) — Thousands of Mexican voters go to the polls tomorrow to vote for a new governor of Baja California in what may well be anything but a peaceful election.

Federal troops were reported streaming into Baja California from the interior to police the election. Eligio Esquivel, 51-year-old civil engineer is the incumbent Party of Revolutionary Institutions candidate while Salvador Magallan is the candidate of the rival National Action Party.

Both candidates have made claims and counter-claims about the possibility of insurrection at the election. The present governor, Braulio Maldonado, is forbidden by law to seek reelection in Baja California. He is supporting Esquivel.

Maldonado placed local and state police under the military command of Gen. Hermenegildo Cuenca Diaz, zone commander in an effort to maintain order tomorrow. He said the placing of civil authorities under military command was the usual practice.

In addition to the election of a governor by an estimated 200,000 voters, seven state legislators will be selected. Also chosen will be mayors and city councilmen for Tijuana, Mexicali, Tecate and Ensenada.

With tension mounting, Gov. Maldonado yesterday charged that some Mexicans in the United States were conspiring for violence and that weapons stolen from U. S. military bases had been sent to border towns for that purpose.

The opposition party earlier had charged that the administration was prepared to use pressure tactics to remain in power.

Warning that his government would use "all the legal means at its disposal to repress contemplated disturbances," Maldonado said arms from military bases in Southern California had been smuggled into this country and were "in the hands of political agitators."

Maldonado said, "to permit foreigners to meddle in our political affairs may be considered as high treason."

White Women Are Attacked By Negroes

LaGRANGE, Ga. (UPI) — Three Negro men ran down two white girls returning from a dance early today and raped them twice despite efforts of other Negroes to protect the girls, police reported.

The men were arrested shortly after the attack and ordered held without bond in the Troup County Jail here. They were charged with rape.

Sheriff L. W. Bailey identified the men as Clifford Johnson, 22, Brannon Epps, 25, both of LaGrange, and George Alford Jr., 18, of Dayton, Ohio. The girls, aged 18 and 20, were not identified because of a Georgia law barring publication of the names of rape victims.

Nixon said that during his tour of the Soviet Union some of his questioners told him "the United States is short on deeds and long on words," but "nothing could be farther from the truth."

Mitchell Accuses

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell accused management and labor today of failing to make any serious effort to settle the 18-day-old steel strike.

Race Incident In Brooklyn

NEW YORK (AP) — Racial tension over Negroes moving into a predominantly white neighborhood in Brooklyn erupted today into rock hurling by white and Negro youths.

The district attorney's office said some two dozen white boys, shouting epithets, threw rocks that smashed windows in a Bushwick section tenement that has Negroes among new tenants. One white youth allegedly attempted to set the place afire with gasoline.

Five Negro youths hurled rocks from the rooftops at the whites in retaliation.

With composition as clean and precise as this of Handel's, the accompaniment must be accurate. This was well done by Sister M. Francesca, O.P. at the organ for preludes, recitatives, and some chorus accompaniment; and by Lila Gabriel, Laurette McAuliffe, and Mrs.

Mrs. Arthur L. Schallock, 20 Knight drive, said her dog was the second in the neighborhood to become seriously ill recently from strychnine poisoning.

She said she doubted that the poisoning was out of malice but guessed that the poison was put out by gardeners to keep skunks away.

Gardeners get the strychnine from county officials and place it in eggs and meat in their yards at night, Mrs. Schallock said.

By not picking the poison up again in the morning makes it a menace not only to dogs but to children, she said.

Arthur S. Clarkson, 44-year-old Mill Valley salesman, was jailed last night on complaint of his wife who said he struck her at the climax of a family argument and inflicted a six-inch cut on her right arm with a butcher knife.

Clarke was picked up at a Mill Valley bar an hour after the fight. He was booked at the county jail on charges of assault, assault and battery, and assault with a deadly weapon.

He was released this morning on $500 bail and is scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal

AUDIENCE APPLAUSE DESERVED

'Togetherness' Demonstrated By Dominican College Singers

By BETSY WOODMAN

The 65 singers in last night's Dominican College Summer Session concert demonstrated a remarkable togetherness. This much maligned term is a valuable attribute in musical groups, and the feeling of the oneness in the chorus went beyond just good attacks and endings.

In presenting the selections from the oratorio "Judas Macabaeus" by George Frederick Handel, the singers gave the impression that they had been working together for a long time. Actually, the chorus was composed of students at Dominican for the summer and those members of the Winifred Baker Chorale who could make rehearsals during the short weeks leading up to the concert.

Under Mrs. Baker's direction, the mature aspects of this later work of Handel were revealed. There was a fortunate balance of voices and an excellent bass section. The tone of the whole chorus was fine and generally full. The overwhelming "shout effect" so often prevailing in an oratorio presentation was completely absent. Even the final exulting "Hallelujah, Amen" chorus was vigorous but not brassy.

Baritone Byron Jones, singing parts of Simon and Eupolemus, sang exceptionally well. Restrained vigor was impressive, and his excellent diction for Novato?

Other choruses particularly well done were the initial "Mourne Ye Afflicted Children" with a mood of dignified sadness, and "Hear us, O Lord." In the latter good diction discipline was evident in the lack of hissing in the "s" sounds.

With composition as clean and precise as this of Handel's, the accompaniment must be accurate. This was well done by Sister M. Francesca, O.P. at the organ for preludes, recitatives, and some chorus accompaniment; and by Lila Gabriel, Laurette McAuliffe, and Mrs.

Baker herself at the piano. Baker herself at the piano.

A narration by Sister M. Cyri, O.P., effectively tied the theme of the oratorio together, and filling in the parts not performed at this concert.

Duets sung by sopranos Sister M. Amata, O.P., and Sister Jean Marie, C.S.J.O., were especially delightful in their clear simplicity with "O lovely peace" particularly sweet. Their voices were well-matched for blend.

Annette Brophy Jacobs, also soprano soloist, sang the demanding arias and recitatives in professional manner. Her interpretation of the numbers was pleasing although at times perhaps too gentle. Her mezzo tones were beautiful to hear.

Rev. Robert Despars, as the tenor soloist singing the part of Judas, showed unusual range and made the recitatives, often a dull bridge, interesting. The tenor parts of his arias were excellent.

Baritone Byron Jones, singing parts of Simon and Eupolemus, sang exceptionally well. Restrained vigor was impressive, and his excellent diction

Mill Valley Police Also Hunt Man Wanted In S.F.

Ernest Montano, formerly of 116 Tamal Vista drive, San Rafael, sought in the alleged swindle of two San Francisco barbers, also is being sought by Mill Valley police on bad check charges.

Police Chief James McGowan said yesterday that Montano is wanted for passing $100 in fictitious checks at the Jolly Market and $35 in bad checks at the Red Hill Liquor Store.

In San Francisco, a warrant has been issued for Montano's arrest on 12 counts of grand theft and two counts of selling stock without a permit.

Edmund A. Aliprantis, 45, and his father, Vincent, complained that Montano, 46, took $10,300 of their money on the pretense that he was going to build a large shopping center in Lucas Valley.

Check Forger Ruled Insane

James C. Johnson, 31, of San Francisco, alias Abdulla El Khalifa Hamadallab, convicted of check forgery at Marin City, is insane and must go to the state hospital at Atascadero.

After receiving a medical report, Judge Thomas F. Keating of Marin Superior Court ordered Johnson sent to the mental institution for treatment.

Johnson's companion in crime, Samuel Rover, 32, was sentenced to a year in county jail.

The two men tried to cash two forged checks at Brice Brothers Market in Marin City last May.

Willis Attorney Leaves Case

San Rafael attorney Berwyn A. Rice will not help defend Dr. and Mrs. Jack E. Willis in the abortion trial, set for next Tuesday.

Judge Thomas F. Keating yesterday granted Rice's request to withdraw from the case, thus leaving attorney Leslie Gillen as sole counsel for the Mill Valley doctor.

Rice explained that "unhappy differences" had arisen between him and the Willises.

Plenty Of Kissing

HONOLULU (AP) — Bob Krauss columnist for the Honolulu Advertiser, conducting a kissing survey, came up with the report that the average wife in Hawaii gets kissed nine times a day by her husband.

Krauss wrote that one 55-year-old Honolulu housewife, married for 32 years, claims that her husband kisses her 150 times a day.

"This would probably be an all time record but, since she didn't sign her name, I didn't include her in the averages."

Can Be Confusing

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Directions to a street named Lincoln Park can prove utterly confusing to a stranger.

There are four different streets in the area with that name all existing for almost 66 years.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS

From Everywhere

No Steel Progress

NEW YORK (P) — Negotiations between the steel industry and the United Steelworkers have recessed for the weekend without any indication of progress toward ending a strike which started July 15.

In other developments, possible strikes were averted in copper mines and the aluminum industry.

In aluminum, a scheduled walkout of 5,500 workers was averted just before midnight last night, when the Aluminum Workers International Union and the Reynolds Metals Co. agreed to extend the present contract indefinitely to allow negotiations to continue.

In copper, the steelworkers union agreed to keep working on a day-to-day basis in copper mines and refineries of Arizona and Utah.

Planes Fight Fire

SAN FRANCISCO (P) — More than 500 men, aided by borate-bombing planes, strove today to control a 6,000-acre forest fire which has burned to within seven air miles of Yosemite National Park's south boundary.

Aerial tankers, mostly old converted Navy bombers, dropped the fire-snuffing borate in areas where terrain permitted medium and low altitude flying.

It was the only serious fire remaining of those which have laid waste nearly 20,000 acres in Northern California the past 10 days while being battled by more than 2,700 men.

Phone Rate Cut

WASHINGTON (P) — Phone rates will be cut 47 million dollars annually starting the middle of next month. It will save some long distance callers five to 25 cents on a three-minute call.

American Telephone and Telegraph Co. has notified the Federal Communications Commission that the cuts will affect only interstate station-to-station calls of more than 468 miles.

The charge for a daytime call between Washington and San Francisco, for example, will drop from $2.50 to $2.25 for the first three minutes.

Second Botulism Death

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (P) — The paralyzing poison in a jar of home-canned beets claimed its second victim last night. Of the four who survive, one is near death, two are in serious condition and the last may be out of danger.

All six were felled by dread botulism—a nerve-attacking poison produced by bacteria which grow in improperly cooked food.

Fifteen-year-old Wanda Nelson died in her iron lung yesterday evening. Early Thursday, Aaron Gruwell, 74, an east Idaho farmer, also died.

Position Worth War

MILWAUKEE (P) — Sen. John Kennedy (D-Mass.) said last night that "our position in Europe is worth a nuclear war."

Kennedy, in answer to a question on a television interview, said:

"Our position in Europe is worth a nuclear war because if you are driven from Berlin you are driven from Germany. And, if you are driven from Europe, you are driven from Asia and Africa, and then our time will come next. You have to indicate your willingness to go to the ultimate weapon."

Weapon Source Found

WEST COVINA (UPI) — Police reported today they have located the Las Vegas, Nev., supermarket where accused wife-slayer Dr. R. Bernard Finch purchased an eight-inch butcher knife and flashlight found in a briefcase near the death scene.

The find was reported by Dep. Dist. Atty. Fred Whitchell. He said he had heard from Capt. of Detectives William Ryan and sheriff's Sgt. Ray Hopkinson, both of whom are at Las Vegas running down leads on the case.

Job Official Quits

SACRAMENTO (P) — Another top-level official of the state Farm Placement Service has left the job, resigning without explanation in the midst of an investigation into his activities.

Employment Department officials accepted "with prejudice" yesterday the resignation of Don R. Park, farm placement supervisor in San Diego and Imperial counties.

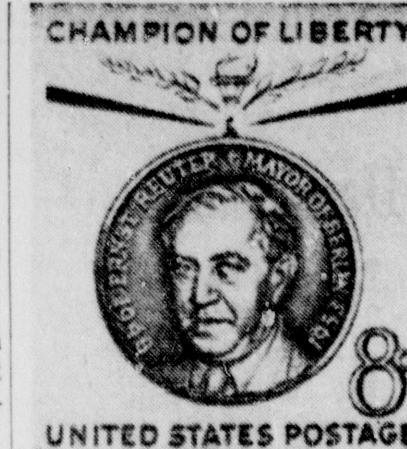

Queen Ends Visit

HALIFAX, N.S. (P) — Queen Elizabeth II winds up her 45-day visit to Canada today with a glittering state dinner after meeting with the federal Cabinet and presenting new colors to the Canadian Navy.

Farm Prices Drop

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Farm prices in mid-July were at their lowest level since December, 1957, the Agriculture Department reports.

The department said farmers' prices dropped 1 per cent in the month that ended July 15. They were 4 per cent lower than one year ago.

Convicts Escape

HOWARD, R.I. (P) — Two tough criminals and a violent mental patient today scaled the wall at the state prison here, forced a guard to drive them to Providence and then escaped in a waiting auto.

Authorities identified the prisoners as Gennaro D'Amico, 38, serving 20 years for attempting to kill a policeman, and Edward J. Andrews, 28, serving life for the rape-killing of an 88-year-old schoolteacher.

The third escaper was identified as Robert Hashberger, 19, who had been transferred to the prison hospital from the state mental institution because of tendencies toward violence.

Bus Strike Ends

DALLAS (P) — Continental Trailways bus service from Dallas to the West Coast will be resumed Monday after settlement of a strike that crippled the nation-wide system for 394 days.

Liberace Sues Again

LONDON (P) — Entertainer Liberace is suing British comedian Jimmy Thompson for slander and libel.

The suit involves Thompson's skit on Liberace in the revue "For Amusement Only."

Godfrey To Hawaii

SAN FRANCISCO (P) — Arthur Godfrey, looking fit following his April lung cancer operation, leaves today for a 10-day television taping trip to Hawaii.

Artist Gets Pay

SACRAMENTO (P) — Cameron Booth, who painted that controversial portrait of former Gov. Goodwin J. Knight, has been paid $3,000, the state Finance Department said yesterday.

LIMITED INTEGRATION

6 Negroes Are Assigned Little Rock White Schools

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (P) — The Little Rock School Board has assigned six Negroes to once-white public high schools which the board intends to reopen in September, a board member said today.

Fifty-five Negroes registered for the fall term at Little Rock's three white high schools which were closed last year in the integration dispute.

Three Negroes were assigned to Central High School and three to Hall High under the first use of an Arkansas pupil placement law.

The board chose the pupil assignment system in order to obey a federal mandate for integration of the Little Rock School District and at the same time hold desegregation to a minimum.

Mrs. L. C. Bates, president of the Arkansas Branch of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, charged the School Board was not acting "in good faith" in making so few Negro assignments. "I'm sure we'll appeal this board action to the federal court," she said.

Everett Tucker Jr., president of the school board, said he felt the board was proceeding in good faith in assigning the six Negroes.

"Any of the 2,250 white and Negro students registered for the four public high schools who feel they are dissatisfied are entitled to pursue administrative remedies between now and school-opening," Tucker said.

The pupil placement plan provides for assignment of students on the basis of such factors as educational aptitude, health and availability of transportation facilities. Race is not a factor.

Appointed Secretary

Fred F. McLain of Pasadena has been appointed executive secretary of the Assn. of Independent California Colleges and Universities, a group of 30 private colleges and universities including Dominican College of San Rafael.

Laos Claims More Red Attacks Likely

SAIGON (UPI) — Reports from communist-attacked Laos said today government paratroops "have the situation well in hand" on the nation's threatened northern border, but new Red offensives appeared likely.

The government of Laos charges that the Red attackers are armed and supplied by communist China and communist North Viet Nam, the nations which border Laos on the north.

Laos' Vice Premier Katay Sasorith arrived in Paris today on a surprise visit that may be the prelude to an appeal for UN action against the Reds. UN Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold is now in the French capital.

At the same time, it was reported that Russia is demanding a meeting of the Geneva Commission to discuss possible intervention in Laos.

William R. Kimball of 30 to be away on vacation and due back Monday. Word of the sale came from New York but was confirmed locally.

In announcing sale of its subsidiary Kimball Manufacturing, which is at Harbor and Mill streets in San Rafael, Frederick N. Schwartz, Bristol-Myers president, said Kimball has formed a new corporation to recover his former property of which he has served as president under Bristol-Myers.

Sales price and details of the transaction were not disclosed but Schwartz said that the company has decided to concentrate its activities on drugs and allied specialties. Kimball Manufacturing has made fiberglass water skis, decorative gift-wares, planters and industrial molding.

Several of the kinds of Ceanothus are used in gardens because of their ornamental leaves and flower clusters. Ceanothus flowers, when crushed and rubbed in water, give a foamy lather which may be used as "soap." (From "Out-of-Doors in Marin," copyrighted by M. F. Austin.)

Talk is Cheap, But Be Careful You Don't Spend It Foolishly

THE ART of prudent conversation you don't learn in a schoolroom, and textbooks only teach you how to string words together. What often follows shouldn't happen to a split infinitive.

Talk runneth extravagantly from the mouths of wiseacres in careless phrases where even fools fear to tread. Verily they should be muzzled with a thinking man's filter.

A while back I listened in on a conversation between two competitive salesmen who were comparing business notes. We'll call them Joe and Sam.

"How you doing, Sam?" asked Joe. "Lots of orders these days?"

"Right out in front, boy," said Sam. "How about you?"

"Okay, I guess. No worse than this month last year, anyway."

"The orders I have coming up—I'll be sending mama and Shirley to Honolulu in September on a vacation."

"That's swell, Sam. Say, how is that new pressed steel item of yours going? Bud Travis was telling me about it."

"Best thing that's hit the market in years. It will move like a house afire."

"Isn't that the same as our Gavelock model 7?"

"Way ahead of it. It's lighter and the price is cheaper."

"That's what Travis said. Did he give you an order?"

"Well, not yet. But he promised to buy twenty gross next month. He's crazy if he doesn't."

"May be so, Sam. Bud is a good customer and I hate to lose the business, though."

"Not much you can do to change his mind. We've got a better product and a better price, and . . ."

The conversation faded away as Joe and Sam moved out of earshot with Sam doing most of the talking. I felt kind of sorry for Joe. He looked like he needed the business, and Sam evidently was taking away his customers.

I didn't think any more about it until a week later when I was introduced to a fellow named Bud Travis who was purchasing agent for a large corporation.

"I've heard of you, I think," I told him. "Seems to me two salesmen were talking about selling you something."

"Could be," he said. "I buy lots of stuff. Remember who they were?"

"Well, one was called Joe something—I never did hear the last name. He called the other Sam."

"Hm-m-m. Lots of guys named Joe and Sam. I don't place them."

"This Joe was a quiet fellow. I guess he's not a very good salesman, but I think he sells you something called Gavelock No. 7, whatever that is."

"Oh, that would be Joe Pepper. And the other one must be Sam Shearer. What made you think Joe isn't a good salesman?"

Well, Sam was boasting about taking away your business and Joe was a little unhappy about it. I felt sorry for him."

"Don't. I'll admit I was tempted to buy Sam's pressed steel model and I told him I'd take some next month. Then Joe came back and re-sold me on Gavelock No. 7 being heavier and rust-proof. I ordered thirty gross. Nothing wrong with Joe's selling. He makes fifteen—twenty thousand a year, I'll bet. Sam—I dunno. He talks too much."

"He sure does," I agreed. "But tell me—what the heck is a Gavelock No. 7?"

"That? It's a mousetrap. We buy lots of them for all our branches."

Which just goes to show that even if you have a better mousetrap, keep it shut in front of your competitor, or he'll beat a path to your prospect's door!

A LITTLE BLUE-BLACK BIRD

A little blue-black bird
With haughty golden eyes
Struts there before me
Lordly, as he disdainfully
Bends to pick at a crust

here and there.

After testing each faulty morsel
He cocks his head jauntily
As if in reply to my silent question
"Well, what do you expect?

Of course it's no good—

Not for me!"

And I try not to smile.

Then he stoops stiffly

To a small piece of popcorn,
Straightens, glances quickly around,

Then grabs it to fly gayly away;

All his haughtiness

All his grandeur

Gone in jubilance.

'I Said I'd Take It Temporarily'

San Anselmo's Donald Wood Dons Civvies After 28 Police Years

By DIANA BRUCE

Police Chief Donald T. Wood of San Anselmo relinquished his title and retired as of today.

He has been San Anselmo's first police chief, and until Raymond R. Buchignani took over today, he was San Anselmo's only police chief.

"No chief of police can successfully administer his department without the general support of the citizens of the community," Chief Wood said. "I'm deeply grateful for the excellent support that has been given my office over all these years."

He was appointed chief of police on Feb. 16, 1930. A legislative change had just gone into effect replacing a city marshal with a city police chief and Wood was the first to hold the new title.

"THE TYPE OF law enforcement you have in any community is the type the people want," the retiring chief said.

"Without being egotistical," he added, "San Anselmo is referred to throughout California as having one of the finest small departments in the state."

Public opinion in San Anselmo has not always been 100 per cent in favor of Chief Wood. Shortly after Mrs. Carmel Booth was first elected to the city council in 1948, she charged the chief with 10 counts which included indulging in politics in a city election and several charges each of inefficiency and neglect of duty. The charges were dismissed after a secret hearing.

The 66-year-old chief as a youth worked under Frank H. DePue, one of the state's early criminologists, and at 21 he served as a rookie patrolman in the Berkeley Police Department under Chief August Vollmer, father of "scientific police administration."

Chief Wood earned a "juris doctor" degree in 1942 from Blackstone College of Law in Chicago after taking a five-year correspondence course. Many a San Anselmo city ordinance has been drafted by the police chief. He never tried to pass the California bar examination, however.

Chief Wood said he had studied law "so I could administer the duties of the office more proficiently."

HE ADDED parenthetically that during his almost 29 years as police chief, only one person had threatened to file a false arrest suit and that one person died before he could file suit. (His death was not a result of the arrest, the chief said.)

Chief Wood, a former president of the Bay Counties Peace Officers Assn., is well-known outside Marin County. This week he received a letter of best wishes on his retirement from A. H. Fording.

captain of detectives at the Berkeley Police Department.

"Law enforcement in California will be forever in your debt, not only because of the high level at which you conducted the affairs of your own department, but more importantly because of your never ceasing efforts to help raise us to professional status," the Berkeley police official wrote.

Some of the police reforms that Chief Wood worked for through the State Peace Officers Assn. were new standards of law enforcement, minimum officer qualifications, and police officer training institutes.

In 1937 his own city of San Anselmo set up open competitive examinations for police officer candidates.

IN HIS LONG tenure of office, Chief Wood can count several firsts: the first junior traffic patrol in Marin County established in San Anselmo in 1930; the first two-way police radio in Northern California in 1934; and the first state teletype receiver in Marin County in 1951.

He was the instigator of Star Hall in San Anselmo, a gathering spot for law enforcement officers in the county. It is privately owned by a non-profit corporation of regular and reserve police officers.

Donald Thomas Wood was born in Middlesborough, England, on Aug. 26, 1892.

His parents, Victor and Ellen Wood, died when he was an infant. He was adopted by his aunt and her husband, William Knowland. The family lived in the eastern United States and traveled extensively in South and Central America.

At only 11, Don Wood was orphaned for a second time. His aunt and uncle died of tropical fever in Brazil and he contacted the disease also. He returned to the United States by banana boat and went to St. Helena, Napa County, where a noted specialist in tropical diseases had a sanitarium.

Wood was on his own from that time on. He attended school in St. Helena and graduated from high school there.

When he was 18 he got a chance to work under Frank H. DePue, grandfather of Harold R. DePue who is superintendent of the San Anselmo, Fairfax and Kentfield school districts.

Frank DePue in 1906 established the state's first bureau of criminal identification at the Ferry Building in San Francisco. The bureau only lasted two years because the next state Legislature failed to appropriate money for it. Wood and 15 others working under DePue were the first fingerprint experts in the state of California.

About 1912, Wood went to

PROFILE OF THE WEEK—San Anselmo Police Chief Donald T. Wood ended over 28 years of police service in the Hub City yesterday. The city had a marshal before his appointment as police chief. Raymond R. work for the University of California as a traffic control officer. He was the first uniformed officer to be employed by the university in Berkeley.

In January of 1914 he joined the Berkeley Police Department under its famous chief, August Vollmer.

World War I interrupted his police career. Wood enlisted in the Army and served on European battlefields in the First Gas and Flame Regiment, the only offensive detachment of the Chemical Warfare Service. He was discharged as a sergeant first class in 1919.

WOOD RETURNED to the Berkeley Police Department but the effects of having been gassed twice during his wartime service prompted his doctor to advise that he leave police work. He came to Marin County and gravitated to painting and decorating as a contractor.

It was about this time, in August of 1920, that Wood married Mabel Jerrine Keefer of Berkeley. Chief Wood is two days older than his wife. They have one son, Donald Allen Wood, who is a linotype operator living in San Francisco. The elder Woods have a two-year-old granddaughter and a grandson four months old.

In 1930 Ben Gaston, marshal of the city of San Anselmo, died unexpectedly. Wood's background of police work was known by the San Anselmo City Council and he was asked to take the job of police chief.

"I said I'd take it temporarily," Chief Wood recalls.

On Feb. 16, 1930, he was appointed to the job and has held it ever since. When he began, the department consisted of the chief, a day man and a night man. Chief Wood now has had 12 uniformed officers under him.

THE POLICE chief's interests are not confined to his vocation. He is a faithful stamp-collector although he now limits his collecting to United States issues. He is a photographer and formerly did commercial and portrait work on his days off. (This caused Mrs. Booth in 1949 to charge he violated the zoning ordinance with a home photo shop.) He likes to hunt, fish, and golf. His prowess at pistol shooting won him a 1941 trophy and a permanent trophy in 1958. And his horticultural efforts have included grafting fruit trees.

When Chief Wood and his wife moved May 20 from their long-time home at 42 Woodland avenue to a smaller house at 27 Rowland court, he left behind one of his grafting experiments. It is an apple tree capable of producing 17 different varieties of apples, the chief claims.

In addition to membership in various peace officers' organizations, Chief Wood is a member of American Legion Post 179 in San Anselmo; Fairfax Lodge 556 Free and Accepted Masons; California Consistory Scottish Rites; 32nd degree, Islam Temple of the Shrine, and the Marin Shrine Club; and Scio's San Rafael Pyramid 31.

He and his wife are partners with Lawrence and Millie Asay in Millie's Smart Shoppe at Pt. Reyes Station.

One of the first things that Chief Wood plans to do when he retires on his pension of $305 a month is to "don the robes of an ordinary citizen."

After more than 35 years in a uniform of one sort or another, that is quite a change.

These chests were built in high school manual arts work shops and filled by students who are members of the American Junior Red Cross. Most of these gift chests go abroad.

In Marin youngsters join the Junior Red Cross program at school and serve throughout the year as aides. The summer sees increased activity, as many have more days to devote. They serve at Sonoma State Hospital, at Marin Convalescent Hospital in Tiburon, at Sun Valley School program for retarded children and many others.

The American Junior Red Cross is one of the largest organizations in America which has a good citizenship program for young people.

Through Junior Red Cross, elementary and secondary grade students in public, private and parochial schools help adults and children at home and throughout the world.

ESTABLISHED in 1917 by former President Woodrow Wilson, the junior group provided boys and girls with a chance to help in the war effort. Today it concentrates on community welfare, health and safety and international understanding.

Members are enrolled in schools. Each student earns or saves the amount he wishes to contribute. In every participating school there is a teacher-sponsor named by the principal to supervise activities.

An international organization, Red Cross is active in 80 countries and 71 have a junior membership. In the international program are some of the most interesting of the projects for juniors.

One of these is the gift boxes of toys, sewing kits, crayons to tooth brushes. Boxes are packed by juniors in their schools with contents furnished by the children and shipping cost paid by contributions from members.

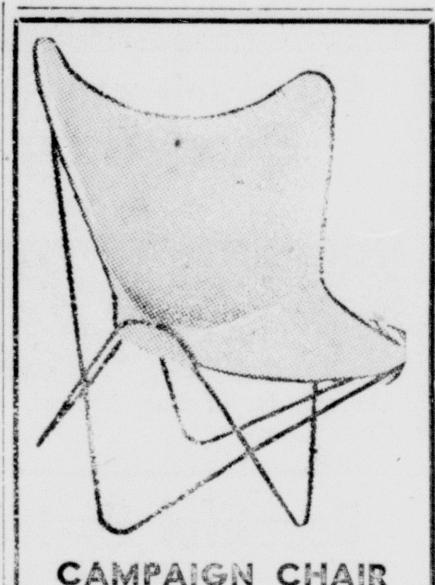

Nearly every nation in the world has received these to-ens of friendship from American boys and girls since the program's inception in 1921. A practical aspect at home is that teachers relate this activity to school studies of people and places receiving the boxes.

Also international in scope is the Gift Chest program. Built in high school manual arts work shops and filled with school and health supplies for a classroom of 40 for a school year, these chests are sent to the American Red Cross warehouse in Washington, D.C.

When headquarters receive word from the League of Red Cross Societies in Geneva as to which countries need school and health supplies, the chests are shipped to the League's European warehouse for distribution. Last year 360 of these chests, valued at $36,000, were shipped abroad.

The chests are also available to disaster areas in the United States—as in the case of the Chicago parochial school which burned.

Exchange of paintings and school albums is another aspect of the program to promote understanding among the world's youngsters.

PAINTINGS are exchanged through the international school art program sponsored by American Junior Red Cross and the National Art Education Assn. American students send drawings and paintings depicting their lives and interests overseas and receive in return those of the foreign youngsters. Since the start of the program in 1947 more than 50,000 paintings have been sent.

Juniors are on the job at home also in the community service, health and safety aspects of the program.

There is the ever present job of providing hospital patients and aged residents of homes with holiday decorations, party supplies, and services to help keep their minds off their troubles.

In Marin County, well trained Junior Grey Ladies go to Sonoma State Hospital, the Convalescent and Rehabilitation Hospital in Tiburon, Sun Valley School in San Rafael, Lucas Valley Farm, and the Nursery School for Retarded Children at Arequipa, where they assist in numerous phases of patient care.

LAPBOARDS, tray favors for holidays, placements, and dolls are a few of the items juniors make and contribute to Marin County hospitals.

Water safety skills and first aid techniques are studied in standard Red Cross classes and are a significant part of the training.

Every year outstanding Junior Red Cross members are selected to attend training centers around the nation. Among the Marin County students who recently attended such a training center on the University of California Campus at Davis were Penny Fries, Beth Olson, Lynn Danforth, Gary Scott, Sally Dresia, Albert Perry, Germaine Briggs and Beverly Dismukes.

Since 1950 juniors have also been representing the American Red Cross on international study visits to Europe or the Far East—a program of special significance to Marin recently, since Judith Boss of San Rafael was one of the fortunate 14 delegates who went to Europe this summer.

NATURE NOTES

By S. THOMPSON WALKER
Director, Junior Museum of Marin

Our Mountain Lion Really Isn't The Villain People Claim He Is

Of all our Marin County mammals the mountain lion has probably suffered most from the depredations of man. To attempt to say anything in favor of the mountain lion is to invite criticism from all sides because this large mammal is the brunt of more animosity and misinformation than it ever deserved.

Few people are ever fortunate enough to see a mountain lion in the wild; those that do are unfortunately often the ones that are armed with guns and a large supply of misinformation. Many people think of the mountain lion as a dangerous animal, and subsequently, a trophy worthy of pride and boasting. In reality the typical mountain lion is an extremely shy animal that can only be hunted to any degree of success with good dogs. Once the animal is brought to bay the remaining job of killing hardly warrants any subsequent boasting.

The mountain lion is the largest of our cats and reaches a length of six to eight feet, including the tail which is about two and a half feet long. The general color is grayish or reddish brown above with white underparts. The long slender tail is tipped with black, the inside of the ears are white, and the muzzle is a darker brown.

The favorite food of mountain lions is deer. In areas where deer have become too plentiful it is usually found that the mountain lions have been destroyed to such a degree that the natural deer control is lost. They also feed on skunks, porcupines and rodents to give variety to their diet. The deer killed by lions are usually the diseased or crippled ones so that the deer herd profits by the removal of the less desirable element.

In areas where stock is raised it can be shown that mountain lions will kill cattle and sheep. It can also be shown that the animals doing the stock killing are often old and incapable of catching deer and natural foods. It has also been demonstrated that the stock killed by mountain lions (in many cases lions are blamed when they didn't actually do the killing) is often sick or diseased and of little real value to the rancher.

'Patrologiae Cursus Completus'

Search Brings Complete Writings Of Early Churchmen To Seminary

By LESLIE LUERGAN

During the past decade the San Francisco Theological Seminary library has been slowly accumulating volumes of the "Patrologiae Cursus Completus," collected writings of Early Church Fathers, eminent leaders of the Christian faith from the first through the sixth centuries.

From dealers in cities and towns across the country these books had gravitated to Dr. Francis L. Bouquet, librarian. The Seminary's collection numbered about 40 volumes. Last fall the faculty library committee, Professors Neill Q. Hamilton, chairman; David Esler and J. David Alexander, began acquisition of the complete collection, nearly 400 volumes, for the Seminary's graduate program.

Dr. Martin Anton Schmidt, associate professor of historical theology, kindled the committee's interest further. Dr. Schmidt had used the "Patrologia" while doing research for his D. Theol. at the University of Basel in Switzerland, and he felt the collection was essential to graduate studies.

"THE GREATEST MINDS in history; men like Leonardo da Vinci, Swedenborg and Bacon, have formulated their concepts through study of the Early Church Fathers," Dr. Schmidt said.

The writings of St. Augustine, Bede, Pope Innocent III and 3,000 other Church leaders are contained in the collection. Most of the early leaders wrote from a comprehensive knowledge of sociology, philosophy, theology, psychology, art and even politics, because these aspects of human life were then not segregated into specialized fields as they are today.

The "Patrologia" owes its genesis to a lively controversy between a Catholic Bishop of Orleans in 1833 and a young French priest, Jacques Paul Migne, who was curate at Puisieux. Migne had written a book on the liberty of priests which had missed the Bishop's favor. Migne went to Paris and began a publication called L'Univers. In 1836 he went to Petit Montrouge, near Paris, and built up a huge printing establishment, which he called Imprimerie Catholique. This remarkable concern also manufactured organs, statuary, pictures and other sacred objects.

But Migne's most significant undertaking, was compiling the writings of the Greek and Latin Fathers into a complete collection — the Patrologiae Cursus Completus. Before this, these writings had been available only in scattered editions, many of which were rare books and often inaccessible, found only in private libraries. He combined these writings into two series, the Series Latina, 221 volumes issued from 1844-65; and the Series Graeca, 161 volumes issued from 1857-66. The collection also contains the works of several medieval leaders.

THE WORK of finding, compiling and editing the writings of the authors of the "Patrologia" required an enormous staff. Records describe the windows of the Imprimerie Catholique glowing all night from the light of the candles by which Migne's staff worked.

Migne's activities were never regarded favorably by the Church; and for years the Archbishop of Paris forbade this work. In 1868 Migne's entire establishment burned to the ground. In the fire some volumes were destroyed and to this day the only complete collections are those that had been issued prior to the fire.

The Franco-German war delayed reconstruction of the establishment and in 1874, one year before Migne's death, he was the object of a Roman decree which carried further the prohibitions of the Archbishop of Paris. Although the Imprimerie Catholique was reputedly sold the year following Migne's death, there is no evidence that operations ever resumed.

The Seminary's faculty library committee brought its discussion of the "Patrologia" to Dr. Bouquet, who responded with enthusiasm. His only doubt was that the library's budget could support a project of such magnitude. He thought that help might be offered, and with Dr. Schmidt took the matter to the executive committee of the Alumni Association, who agreed to pay a portion of the expense involved.

Then the search for the collection began.

MONTHS OF correspondence finally located the hundreds of volumes missing from the Seminary's collection of the "Patrologia"; and in January Dr. Bouquet's order was confirmed by a dealer in Europe. In June a large shipment of the books was received at the library, and the balance of 100 volumes will be shipped from Europe in the next few months to complete the work.

A Stay At 700-Year-Old Salzburg Castle

By WILLIAM L. EARLE

When Dr. Paul Fasal of Kentfield arrived in Vienna with his family last month, he completed an around-the-world trip that started 21 years ago with a hurried escape from the Nazis.

One of his vivid memories of pre-war Vienna was the sight of Adolf Hitler standing on the balcony of Vienna's Imperial Hotel.

On their recent brief visit to their former homeland, Dr. and Mrs. Fasal stayed at the Imperial with their two children, Maria, 14, and John, 10. They were denied the opportunity of occupying Hitler's old suite. It was taken, balcony and all, by another visitor—the Soviet Union's minister of economics.

While they found Vienna "beautiful and wonderful," the Fasals said the most memorable part of the Austrian trip was a five-day stay at 700-year-old Sighartstein Castle near Salzburg.

In possession of one family for the last 500 years, Sighartstein is maintained as an exclusive "guest house" by its owners, Count and Countess Wolf Uiberacker. Former prisoners of the Nazis, they are the Fasals reported, "the most charming people imaginable." Both are in their 70s.

"BY AMAZING LUCK," Fasal said, "we were the only guests. They usually have 12. It was like a private visit, and it represented Austrian tradition at its best. For us, those five days were absolutely tops."

The castle, which has a moat and drawbridge, looks off to the distant Alps. Inside, its rooms and hallways are adorned with medieval weapons and suits of armor. The walls of the long dining hall are lined with heads of tigers, hippopotami and other big game shot by the Count many years ago in Ethiopia.

In Vienna, the Fasals were unable to show their children the old house where Dr. Fasal spent most of his boyhood and where they had lived after their marriage. Situated in an historic Viennese square, the house was demolished by a direct hit during an American bombing raid in World War II. Standing in its place is a garish, multi-storyed garage and service station. On the opposite corner is the old Capuchin Church (Kapuziner Kirche), burial place of Austro-Hungarian Emperor Franz Josef and other Hapsburg monarchs.

In the riding hall of the Austrian Imperial Palace, the Fasals thrilled to one of Vienna's greatest attractions, a gala performance of the former Imperial Riding Academy.

Centuries of tradition pervaded the gold-and-ivory hall as the riding troupe, uniformed in the livery of a bygone era, gave an unparalleled demonstration of horsemanship.

In complete agreement, Fasal described the performance as "perfection of movement and beauty." Seats for the weekly exhibitions are in such demand that he wisely ordered tickets from his Marin home two months in advance.

In the ornate Vienna State Opera House, completely rebuilt after wartime destruction of the historic original, the Fasals saw a performance of "The Marriage of Figaro."

Elfriede Fasal was reunited with her two brothers in Vienna, and at a surprise reunion in her honor she was feted by members of her old high school class. She had made one return trip to the Austrian capital by herself in 1952.

"FANTASTIC!" is her husband's one-word description of Austrian food. "It is wonderful in even the most simple restaurant," Fasal said.

One night he went alone to The Three Hussars, a famous restaurant he had frequented

STRAW-HATTED COUNTESS — Countess Uiberacker poses for character study by Fasal during recent visit to Sighartstein with his family. Fasals described Countess and her husband as "the most charming people imaginable."

CASTLE OWNER — Count Wolf Uiberacker relaxes in garden of castle, possessed by same family since 15th Century. Walls of castle dining hall are lined with heads of old game shot by the Count in Ethiopia.

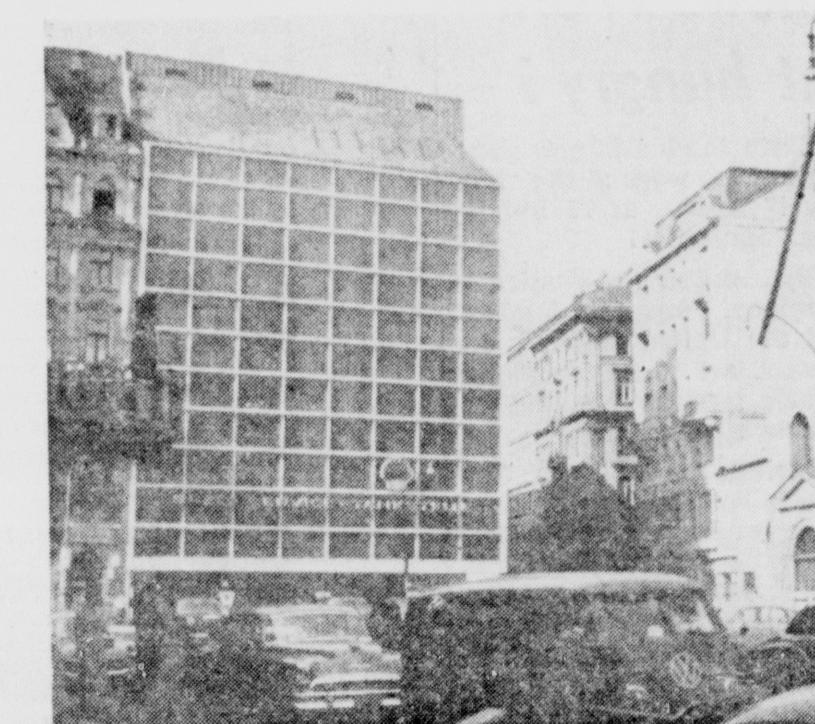

ARMED "SENTRIES" — Ancient cannon and suit of armor "stand guard" in entryway of Sighartstein. Long hallways of old castle are adorned with many other medieval museum pieces.

WINDOW SYMMETRY — Road to medieval castle is visible through wrought-iron grill-work of upper-story window. Sighartstein visit was highlight of recent trip to Austria by Paul Fasal family of Kentfield.

PLACE OF WORSHIP — Count and Countess Uiberacker attend Mass in this balcony-type room which overlooks altar below. Fasals joined them for worship during recent visit. Room is accessible via small corridor from castle owners' private suite.

FROM THE ASHES — The Paul Fasals of Kentfield once lived in a house where this multi-storyed American-type garage now stands in historic Viennese square (Neuermarkt). War-time bombing demolished the house. Emperor Franz Joseph and other Hapsburg monarchs are buried in Capuchin Church at right.

often in his youth. He was enjoying his meal when the maître d'hôtel delicately asked if he would object to having the flowers removed from his table. He consented, then watched with curiosity as the blossoms were carefully arranged on an empty table next to his.

The mystifying action was explained seconds later when Sophia Loren, the glamorous Italian film star, swept into the room with her husband and two other men. They were escorted by the maître d' to the freshly decorated table.

The Fasals organized their trip to coincide with the annual meeting of the Austrian Dermatological Society, of which Fasal is a corresponding member.

At the Vienna meeting he presented a paper entitled "Dermatological Highlights of a Trip Around the World." He illustrated his talk with clinical color slides of interesting diseases he had encountered since fleeing Vienna on the first leg of that 21-year "trip."

The Fasals made a hasty exit from Austria in 1938 after the German Army "invited" him to join its medical corps.

REALIZING THE invitation amounted to a command, the couple fled to Italy by plane. From there, they sailed to Hong Kong and eventually settled in Malaya, where Fasal spent two years doing medical research for the British government. They came to California in the spring of 1941, less than a year before the Japanese overran Southeast Asia.

On their recent trip, the family flew by jet airliner to New York and Paris. They spent several days in the French capital before flying on to Vienna. Their return was by way of Munich and London, where they took in a performance of the Moscow State Circus.

Happy to be home, the Fasals said almost in unison, "We had a marvelous time, but we wouldn't want to live anywhere else but Marin County."

Low-Flying Moths Can Riddle Lawns

Brown spots on lawns—especially when they are accompanied by low-flying moths in the evening—are often the result of damage by lawn moth larvae.

If you suspect the critters, ask your nurseryman to recommend a spray. One—occasionally two—thorough applications is usually sufficient for control.

Marin Arts & Artists

Black And White Exhibition By Marin Artists On Display

A "Black and White Show" (with shades of gray) is the title of the new exhibition of the Marin Society of Artists to open tomorrow at the Frances Young Gallery, Art and Garden Center, Ross.

Sandra and William Mathews, both artist members of the society, and co-chairmen of the show, announce that the exhibition which usually is primarily a showing of graphics, will this year include all media, arts and crafts, as long as the work is done in black and white or shades of gray.

In keeping with the standards set by the gallery, this will be a juried show, with Lucienne Bloch Dimitroff, Barbara Carpenter, Ted Christensen, Nat Levy and Ed Cadogan serving on the jury of selection for the paintings; and Ed Cadogan, Harry Crotty, Paul Anderson and Kamma Zethraus selecting the crafts.

The public is invited to the opening of the show from 3 to 5 tomorrow. Feature of the afternoon will be a lecture on "Frames and how to use them" by Stephen Dimitroff, Mill Valley artist.

The committee announces unusual decor and refreshments following the "Black and White" theme of the day. The show will continue through August with the gallery open from 2 until 4 p.m. on Wednesdays, Saturdays and Sundays.

'Earth Shook, Sky Burned' Is Account Of 1906 Fire

More than 400 photographs illustrate "The Earth Shook, the Sky Burned," William Bronson's account of the San Francisco earthquake and fire, which Doubleday will publish Sept. 3.

Telling the city's story from the serene day before the quake, when San Francisco still boasted the mansions of Nob Hill and the dens of the then-authentic Barbary Coast, through the disastrous days following the quake of April 18, 1906, when fire demolished the city, Mr. Bronson concludes with the mid-winter exposition of 1915, when the risen city invited the world to admire its rebuilt glory.

Many of the photographs were taken on the fateful morning by Arnold Genthe, and they speak poignantly of the disaster in terms of the people it affected.

William Bronson is a third-generation Californian whose parents and grandparents lived through the earthquake and fire. He began his newspaper career at the age of nine by hawking papers on a San Francisco street corner. He is now publications editor for Hiller Aircraft Corp., Palo Alto.

THE THIRD CHOICE, by Elizabeth Janeway; Doubleday, $3.95, pp. 333.

This is a novel of two women, one suddenly crippled and approaching the end of her years, the other her niece 35 and wondering what to do with her own life.

Written for a feminine audience, the story traces the lives of each woman through alternate chapters, a habit annoying to this reader. The story however picks up interest as it pushes on, and finally both lives fuse in the end, each profiting from the experiences of the other.

This book explores the choices open to an elderly cripple who has always prided herself on being lithe and attractive, and it explores the choices open to the younger who finds herself caught in a hopeless marriage. Stifled, she feels compelled to break away, and takes up with her aunt's doctor, who conveniently is about a great deal. The book's ending was not entirely successful to this reader, somehow dodging and leaving the larger issues hanging. Not unpleasant reading, however.

Violinist To Give Concert Tomorrow

Michael Rabin, celebrated young American violinist, will make his first appearance under auspices of the Marin Music Chest tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock in Forest Meadows, the third attraction of the silver anniversary summer concert season.

Two years ago, when Michael was only 21, Dr. George Szell, musical director of the Cleveland Orchestra, called Rabin "the greatest violin talent that has come to my attention in two or three decades." Rabin has a good heritage for his musical gifts. His father, George Rabin has been a violinist with the New York Philharmonic for 30 years; his mother, Jeanne, is a pianist who for many years was on the faculty of the Juilliard School of Music. Michael, born May 2, 1936, in New York City, started to study music before he was six. He possesses perfect pitch, and, as a child would amuse the family by calling off the pitch of everything from an automobile horn to a steam whistle.

He started studying the violin at the age of seven. After a few lessons, his father realized he had a prodigy on his hands and turned him over to Ivan Galamian of the Juilliard and Curtis faculties. He has worked with Galamian ever since.

At 13, Michael appeared with the National Orchestral Association in Carnegie Hall. The same year he appeared in Cuba, and won from Artur Rodziniski the words, "He is marvelous, fantastic. He has a great future."

Programmed for the recital are the Rondo in G major, Mozart; Sonata in A major, Op. 47 ("Kreutzer"), Beethoven; Poeme, Op. 25, Chausson; Nocturne, Op. 27, No. 2, Chopin-Wilhelmj; Burleske, Suk; Introduction and Rondo Capriccioso, Saint-Saens.

Sidney Stafford will be at the piano.

Gates of Forest Meadows open at 1:30 p.m. There are no reserved seats.

Tips on Purchase and Home Care of Your Wardrobe

By BERT BROWN, Marin Cleaners

Ladies only Please.

Today I would like to get just a little bit personal with the ladies. I want to talk about deodorants and perfumes. From television, radio, newspapers, and magazines, we are bombarded with advertising for deodorants, perfumes and anti-perspirants. Now I am the first to admit that all these products are giving us a sweeter smelling world. And I am also ready to admit that a whiff of perfume can turn a man's head in a hurry.

I think you should use these products, especially if you are like most of us and tend to perspire a bit, at least in hot weather. But when you do use them, there are a few precautions you should take to protect your lovely clothes. Most of these products, and even perspiration, can damage fabrics or leave stains that are almost impossible to remove.

So remember these simple rules. Let anti-perspirants and deodorants dry before dressing. Wear dress shields to protect your clothes. And when you add that final touch of perfume, be sure you keep it away from your clothes.

If you will follow these simple rules, your nice clothes will last much longer, and you will not be risking stains that will never come out. Remember, good home care goes hand in hand with expert dry cleaning care. For more value for your clothing dollar, be sure to have your clothes cleaned regularly.

Concrete Blocks Are Useful To Build Your Garden Wall

A humdrum back yard can be perked up with a "garden" wall—built by you. Using concrete blocks, you can lay up an interesting wall along the rear lot lines.

such as well-mortared concrete blocks, will prevent a rotting or sagging look. Also a good footing or base is necessary.

By laying up a common masonry unit of 8x8x16, you can get a variety of patterns. Try a lattice work effect by leaving uniform open spaces between the units in each row.

A "three-dimensional" effect comes through use of special block. It may be obtained by slightly recessing units at regular intervals in each row. Or alternate half widths (eight-inch wide units) with 16-inch units for another pattern.

Split block or slump block, four inches high, have a rustic or stonelike texture to aid your decorative scheme.

And then there are sections where you can get curved units. These make walls with especially graceful lines.

FIREPLACE FRONTS are an especially popular use of stone in contemporary houses here. The stone is used to extend the hearth and serves to "face" the chimney.

Plant Herbs To 'Spice Up' Your Summertime Barbecues

Ever toss a swatch of bay leaves on a charcoal fire and soak up the aroma it imparts? Do you like the fragrance of freshly-crushed mint in a tall glass of lemonade? Most of us can say yes on both counts, which accounts in part for the perennial infatuation with fresh garden herbs.

But this is only part of the fun. The rewards of fresh herbs in culinary pastimes can make the difference between labor and pleasure in the kitchen — the difference between a meal and a work of art. It is for this that the gardener derives such pleasure from herbs.

While the use of herbs may be an art, the growing of them requires nothing special.

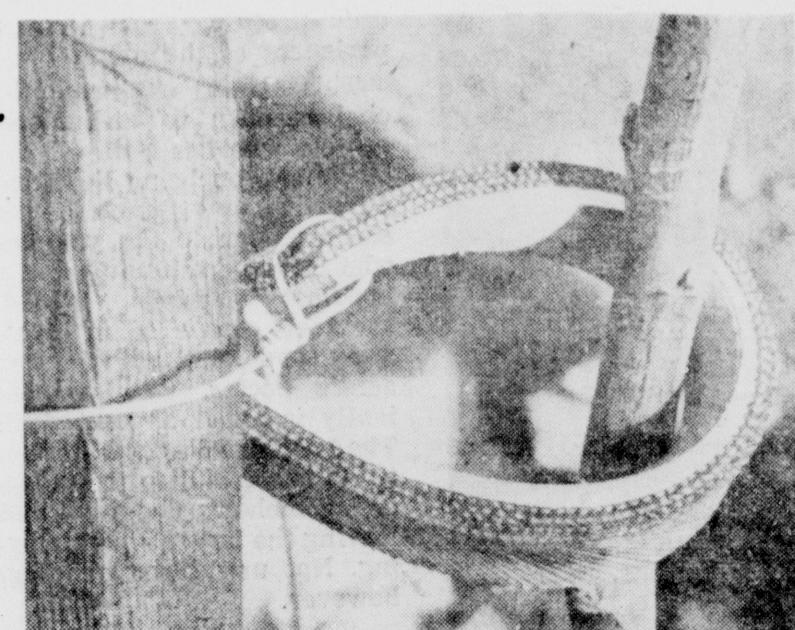

This job can be as seasy as it is pleasurable. In some cases it's as simple as sowing seeds. And in most cases, it's even simpler, since most nurseries offer pots of herbs already started.

When planning an herb garden, the housewife is your best source of what should be included. Certainly, however, the basic garden should include such standbys as parsley, sage, chives, thyme, mar-oram and rosemary. Savory, basil and tarragon are also easy and desirable. So many people have spent time rooting out mint that has grown rampant that we hesitate to recommend it. No herb garden is complete without it, however.

Where to plant herbs? Parsley makes an excellent border. Mint is traditionally at home by a dripping faucet. Sage, by virtue of its gray foliage, fits into most garden schemes. The others do nicely in pot or ground. The nurserymen suggest you keep them handy to the outdoor living area where they are on hand at barbecue time.

And don't hesitate to make use of their proximity. Experiment with herbs has made more than one artist out of a former fry cook.

PROTECTION — Young tree is held to stake by collar made of old auto tire. It is wired to stake, which is placed to windward of tree.

WALL OF STONE brings outdoor planting right into the bedroom with an unbroken line on both sides of glass wall.

This construction is helpful where stone faces hillside and room is on non-view side of house.

Stone Comes Into Its Own For Building

Some 50 years ago stone was used liberally in and around the palatial homes in Southern California designed for the retired wealthy who were drawn from all parts of the United States. At the same time, early builders were taking river-bed pebbles for use in walks and chimneys; in just a few years, the late "renegade" architect Frank Lloyd Wright was to use substantial amounts of native Arizona stone in his home Taliesin West.

Today, stone can be found in walls, planters, fireplaces, lanais, floors, dividers, walks, driveways, pool decks.

Regardless of its origin, almost every stone is used for one or more of four basic uses: interior and exterior walls, landscaping, ornamentation and walks and terraces. In the first category, architects are finding that rocks with a more stratified formation lend themselves to easier shaping and better workmanship. Stratified stone not only splits more evenly for veneering, but also gives more coverage per ton.

For landscaping, odd-shaped pieces, naturally-sculptured in effect, are often used to lend striking beauty in gardens and near walks and patios.

For ornamentation, smaller stones are used in dry walls, borders and other garden effects because they are more rounded. Flagstone is the perennial favorite for walks and terraces.

Stone is subject to both natural and man-made restrictions. All stones are not suitable for all jobs—some are too porous for use in exterior locations; others dissolve with prolonged wetting; some are fragile. Although almost any stone is suitable for landscaping, a sound, sturdy, non-absorptive stone is required for veneering. In every case, municipal building codes in one form or another set the standards for stone construction.

TV Gives New Meanings To Some Familiar Words

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Television, while still in its infancy, is effecting some interesting changes in language usage. As a public service (used in its pre-TV context) we present herewith some old words with new meanings; that is, as far as we can determine. From steady viewing and constant reading of network press releases.

SERIES—One idea repeated 39 different times by one or more steadily employed actors.

WONDERFUL—A word used in place of Mr. or Miss before the name of a guest star on a variety show.

GUEST STAR—A performer who couldn't get his own series.

SPECIAL ADDED ATTRACTION—A performer with a better agent than a guest star's.

AD LIB—Any line on the cue cards misread by a performer.

NEW MOTION PICTURE USE—Seen by 100 million people since it was made in 1932, but never before shown on this channel in this town.

NEW COMMERCIAL—The package our product comes in has been redesigned.

NEW PERFORMER—This actor never has been on the Ed Sullivan Show.

ANTHOLOGY—A batch of old re-runs with a new host.

HOST—Any performer who prepares the audience for the station break.

STATION-BREAK—A period which seems to last slightly longer than the entertainment and during which it is possible to wash the dinner dishes.

NEWS-IN-DEPTH—A show equipped with a voice-of-doom commentator and a bunch of old newsreel clips.

SPECIAL NEWS PRO-

GRAM—A program which results when a network finds it has 3,000 feet of film on a subject nobody knows much about but which cost so much to get they don't want to throw it away.

PUBLIC SERVICE SHOWS—Any program without a sponsor.

EDUCATIONAL TV—Any program featuring college graduates with good English and a small audience.

ADULT ENTERTAINMENT—Any program which includes one damn and two hells.

WRITER—A name given to any person behind the cameras for whom no other title can be dreamed up.

ORIGINAL TELEPLAY—This has been a book, a Broadway play and a movie, but it's never before been done in 30 minutes on TV.

TALENTED—He does imitations of James Cagney.
